

Cover—Title: "The Quiet Train"

(A pieced fabric activity/quiet book. On the cover a clear vinyl pocket holds a 2-sided train for moving through the book; pages are sewn to fold accordion style, so that closing the last page automatically starts the story again on the reverse side. The pages of the book may be turned, for reading on the lap, or opened out full length on the floor to show the entire story at once).

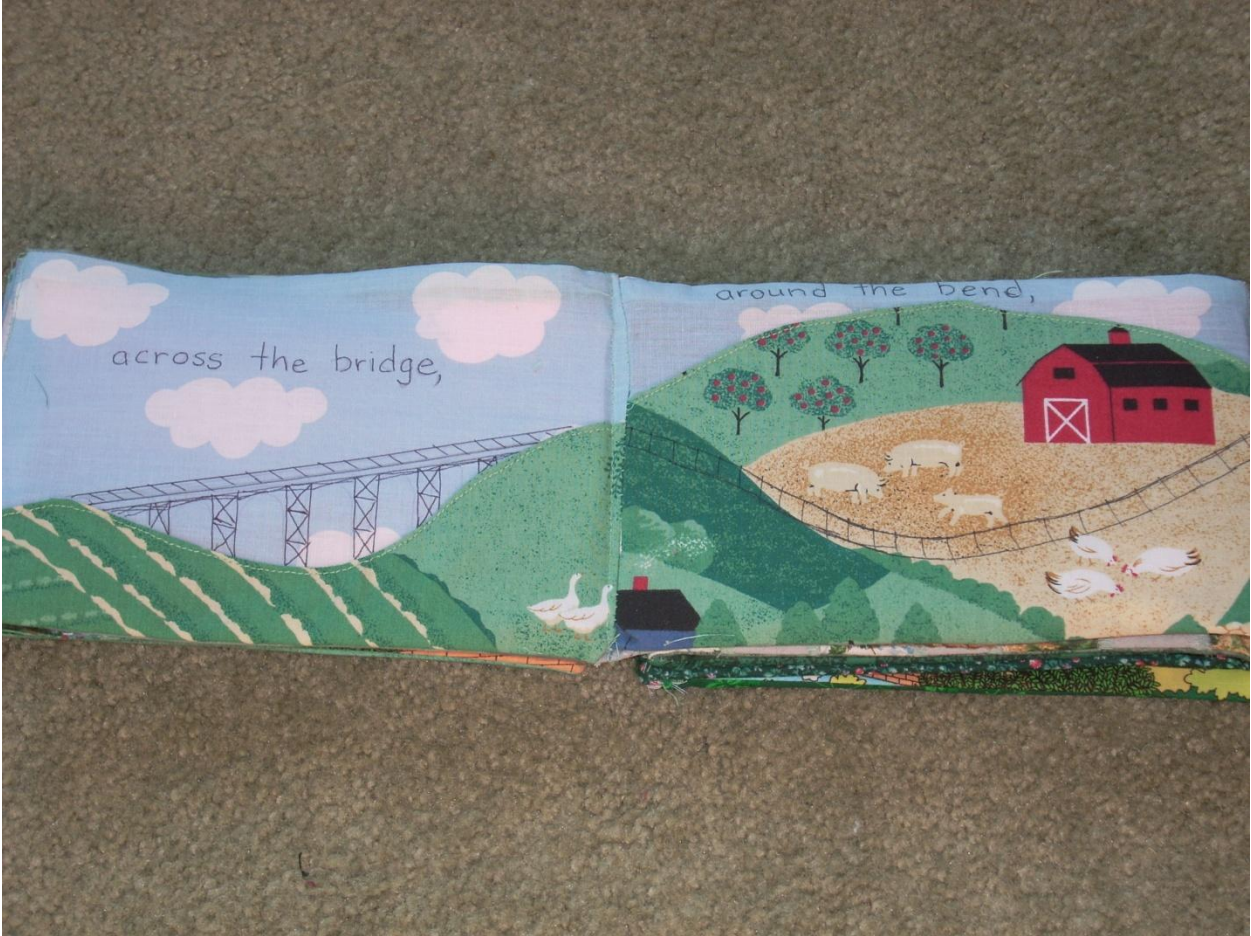

Pages 2-3 "goes up the hill, and down again,"

Pages 4-5 "across the bridge, around the bend,"

Pages 6-7 "through the tunnel, past mountain tops,"

(flap lifts up for the train to go through the tunnel)

Pages 8-9 "Down goes the gate—cars have to wait—then at the station he stops."

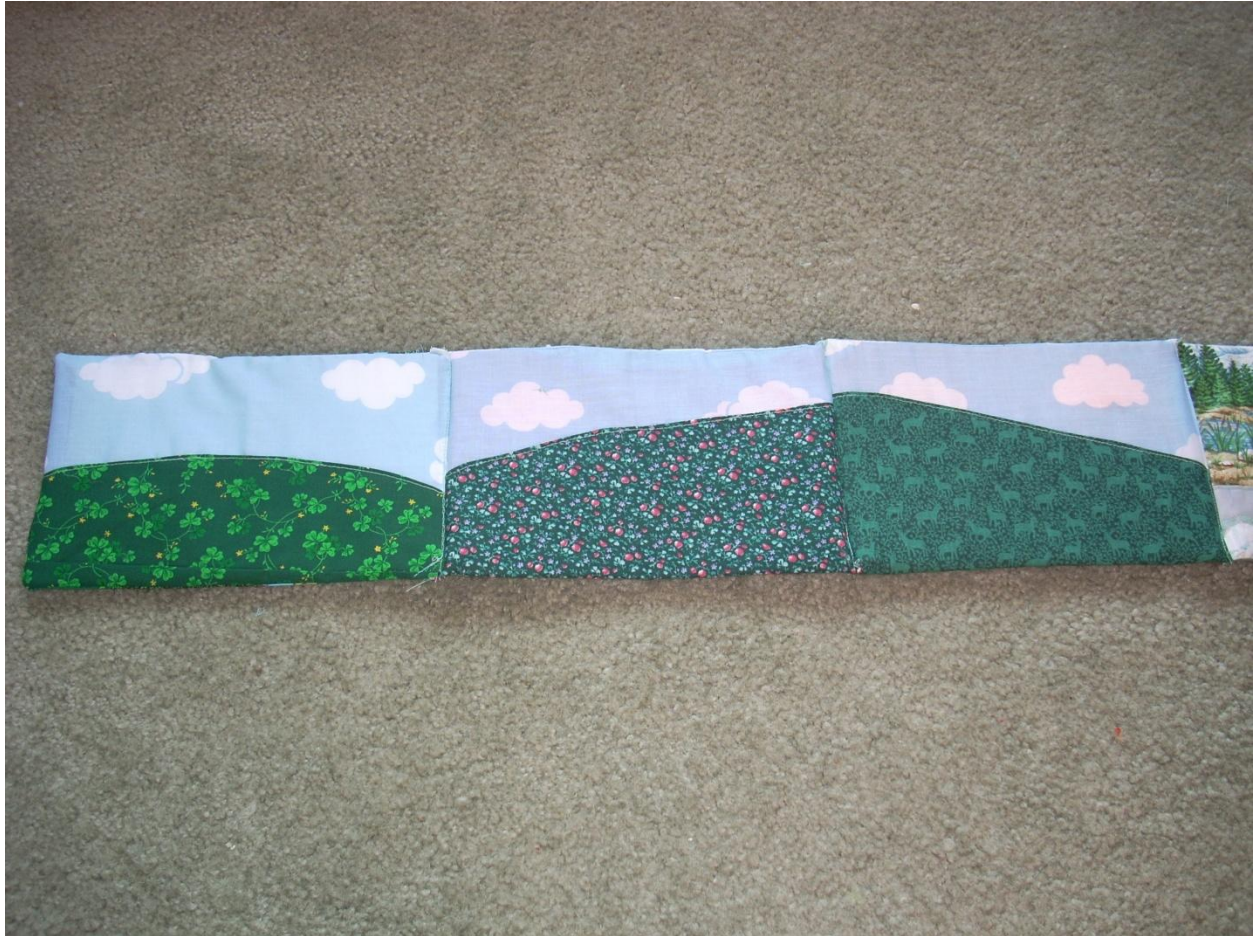

(moveable gate goes up and down; train can pass behind sign)

Back side of pages:

"The Quiet Train goes up the hill and down again,"

(I chose to make the reverse side wordless, and of different fabrics from the front.)

“across the bridge, around the bend, through the tunnel” (includes tunnel flap)

"past mountain tops; down goes the gate—cars have to wait—then at the station he stops."

(gate is moveable, up and down; train can pass behind sign)
